

ORGANIZED NAZI RESISTANCE IN TRIANGLE ENDS

One Of The Most Decisive Victories Of Western War Is Scored

Third Army and Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army in the south.

Vanguards of the two armies linked up at two points 12 and 27 miles west of Kaiserslautern, pinching off the entire Saar basin to the west. The junction stripped Germany at a stroke of vast coal and steel producing facilities in the industrial basin and left only the imperiled Ruhr as a Nazi arsenal.

Saarbrücken, capital of the Saar, was captured by the Seventh army in a fast-breaking attack across the Saar river to the southwest that swiftly engulfed the German defenders. Zweibrücken and Wissembourg, 15 and 45 miles to the east, also were taken in the overwhelming rush of the Seventh army.

The entire 45-mile stretch of the Siegfried fortifications from Saarbrücken to Wissembourg caved in under the American onslaught, and at last reports the Yanks were wheeling northeastward in giant strides, flank to flank with the Third Army.

Thousands Captured Patton's wild-riding tank and motorized infantry columns, meanwhile were stampeding almost at will through the northern wall of the German defenses, sweeping up prisoners by the thousands.

The Third Army's 26th division linked up with Patch's Sixth Army division for the first time a dozen miles west of Kaiserslautern and about the same distance north of Zweibrücken.

A second juncture was made a few hours later at Ottweiler, 27 miles west of Kaiserslautern and only 3 1/2 miles north of the transport center of Neunkirchen. The latter town already was bypassed by the American rush to the East and its fall appeared imminent early today.

Elements of Patton's 10th armored division stormed into Kaiserslautern side by side with the 80th infantry division and began a house-to-house clean-up of a few Nazi de-hards barricaded inside the city.

Head For Rhine Another 10th armored column swept around Kaiserslautern and raced eastward to join the fourth and 11th armored divisions and a still unidentified tank division striking for Ludwigshafen and the Rhine bank to the South.

The Fourth, whose veteran tank fighters set the offensive in motion with their lightning drive across the Moselle a week ago, were out in front of the attack. They captured the cathedral city of Worms after a breakneck, 13-mile dash in seven hours, only to find the two Rhine bridges there had been blown up by the fleeing enemy.

Two companies of German infantry held the city, but one refused to fight and the second was wiped out after a short struggle.

The Yanks immediately wheeled southward at top speed and struck for Ludwigshafen, 10 miles to the South. By mid-morning today they had raced 11 miles over roundabout roads to Lambheim, six miles due west of Ludwigshafen, and Freinsheim, about a mile farther to the Southwest.

At the same time a flying column of the 11th armored division drove 11 miles from the northwest, cut behind the fourth division's spearheads and reached a point four miles west of the Rhine and only six miles northwest of Ludwigshafen.

The unidentified armored division was reported streaking for the open belt of the Rhine bank between Ludwigshafen and the Karlsruhe corner.

Behind the fourth armored division, Patton's 90th infantry division stormed into the Rhine city of Mainz, 25 miles northwest of Worms, and began mopping up scattered German rearguards there. Doughboys of the 90th division also stabbed four miles south of Mainz to the Bodenheim area, 1 1/2 miles from the Rhine, and another task force reached Harkheim, six miles south of Mainz.

Nazis Flee In Disorder Everywhere on Patton's front the Germans were fleeing in wild disorder. A few veteran Nazi units fought on in isolated pockets in an attempt to slow the advance, but they were smothered by the overwhelming weight of American guns, troops and armor.

Patton's troops already had killed, wounded or captured 60,000 to 65,000 Germans in the first six days of their offensive and another 6,000 or more prisoners were known to have been taken by the Seventh army.

Both armies also were sweeping up vast quantities of arms, ammunition and supplies abandoned by the fleeing Nazis, and at one point near St. Wendel the Third Army overran a Nazi prison camp, liberating 300 Russians, Poles and Frenchmen.

Adding to the slaughter of the two German armies—the First and Seventh—was the terrific toll taken by the fighter-bombers of the American first and ninth tactical air forces.

More than 3,200 German military vehicles—tanks, trucks and armored troop carriers—were destroyed or damaged by the low-flying American warplanes yesterday in a 2,900-sortie attack that continued without let-up from dawn to dark.

Returning pilots said the roads east from Kaiserslautern to the Rhine were littered with thousands of bodies and the burning wreckage of German transport.

One high-ranking German officer, captured by Patton's tank crews, said the crushing American victory had ended all hope for a German stand east of the Rhine.

The end of the war is now only a matter of days or weeks, he said. He added that Germany was now "wide open" for an attack across the Rhine by the eight Allied armies controlling virtually all of the river's west bank along a stretch of more than 400 miles from the Swiss border to the North sea.

COMMONS BACK U. S. STAND ON POLISH PROBLEM

LONDON, March 21.—The British government declared its solidarity with the United States today in pressing for the formation of a new Polish government.

Minister of State Richard K. Law said the British and American attitude was identical on the Polish problem. Some observers saw in his statement a confirmation of unofficial reports that Russia is at odds with the western powers on the matter.

Law was substituting in commons for Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who was in Glasgow to make a speech on British foreign policy. His absence had prompted speculation that he might be out of the country, possibly in connection with the Polish problem.

Prime Minister Churchill entered the house of commons well after the start of today's session, sparking speculation that he, too, might be out of the country.

"I am sure that the patriotic people of the United States were dumfounded at the action taken by LaGuardia in challenging and defying the United States government," Colmer said. "It is the duty of all state, county and municipal officials to cooperate with and abide by this regulation."

Many members of the New York congressional delegation sided with LaGuardia. They said the city posed a "unique" problem and that the extension was necessary to take care of the large number of servicemen who go there in quest of entertainment.

17 WARSHIPS DAMAGED; 600 PLANES RUINED

Nip Plans For Repairing Ships Spoiled By Yank Attacks

Japanese ground installations: Destroyed—hangars, shops, arsenals, oil storage facilities and other installations.

American losses: Ships sunk—none. Ships damaged—one seriously, others slightly.

Aircraft—extremely light. The toll of enemy warships was the greatest since the second battle of the Philippine sea last October, when 24 Japanese warships were sunk, 13 possibly sunk and 21 damaged. Later reconnaissance may reveal that some of the warships hit in the inland sea later sank.

The Japanese resisted the defiant American challenge to their fleet with the heaviest and most persistent air attacks on the Task Force and its planes since the air-sea battles off Formosa last September.

Guns of the fleet and carrier-borne fighters broke up most of the attacks, but dive-bombers slipped through the barrage to put one ship out of action. It was able to head toward port under its own power, however.

Other American ships which suffered minor damage remained fully operational, Nimitz said. He gave the lie to Japanese claims that seven American warships had been sunk and 183 American planes shot down during the two-day attack. An additional aircraft carrier was sunk and another damaged yesterday, Tokyo claimed.

Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, commander of the Fifth fleet, was in tactical command of the fleet forces engaged in the assault, which covered a 300-mile front of the Japanese homeland.

The assault opened Sunday with a series of attacks which Tokyo anes airfields on Kyushu, southernmost of the Japanese home islands.

With these neutralized, the huge force of at least a dozen aircraft carriers and escorting battleships and smaller warships moved north for the kill—an attack for the first time on the elusive Japanese navy's home lair in the inland sea.

Targets Pounded For 10 hours on Monday, dive-bombers, high-level bombers, torpedo planes and fighters ranged the 240-mile-long inland sea, bounded by the northeast Kyushu, northern Shikoku and southwest Honshu.

Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of tons of bombs were crashed down on Kobe, Japan's biggest port. Kure, her main objectives at sea scores of other objectives at sea and ashore despite a torrent of anti-aircraft fire.

At least a dozen airfields where the Japanese air force training and defense program were centered were wrecked in the two-day assault.

Not even a poet goes around these days with his head in the clouds—what with the going underfoot being so slippery.

Flowing to the Sea

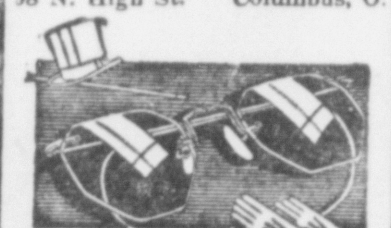

THOUGH styled under the sunny skies of California, and in a fabric smack out of chemistry, this swim dress owes a lot to ancient Greece. That's why women of all figures will find it a flatterer, for the Greeks had a way of draping which hasn't been improved on yet.

The fabric is white rayon jersey with a scroll brush design which may be in gold, wine or blue. Bodice straps follow an evening gown line; panties are attached to waistband. Note self sash belt which ties in front.

Mrs. Clarence Bidwell, Jackson township, was a Tuesday shopping visitor in Circleville.

Training Camp Briefs

By United Press
WILMINGTON, Del., March 21 — A slugger who might make pennant contenders out of the Philadelphia Phillies was working out with them today, but they can't have him. He is Bill Nicholson, National League home run champion, who has been given permission by the Chicago Cubs to do his Spring training here. Nicholson is a war plant employee at nearby Elkton, Md.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 21 — Manager Joe McCarthy thinks his New York Yankees have a good chance for the pennant "if we can start the season with the same club we had at the finish last year," he revealed today.

Contributing to that end two key players, whose status had been in doubt, signed contracts. Outfielder Johnny Lindell said he could play "only as long as my draft board will let me," indicating he would be called in 90 days. Pitcher Hank Borowy, a 17-game winner in 1944, decided to leave his war plant job and said he would report today.

FELLER TO BOSS BLUEJACKET 9

Former Indian Star Named Playing Coach At Great Lakes

GREAT LAKES, ILL., March 21 —Bob Feller's blazing fast ball has come back to baseball.

Feller, a chief specialist in the Navy, was assigned today to coach the Great Lakes Bluejackets baseball team and as a playing coach he will be throwing his famed fast one against big league teams once again.

Great Lakes, which had one of the nation's top baseball teams last season, will play practically all of the major league teams this year. They won 48 out of 50 games a year ago and whipped seven big league clubs under the guidance of Lt. Cmdr. Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, now on active duty in the Pacific.

Feller's return to the mound will provide the first real test of whether big league service stars will be able to come back to shine as brightly as before. Feller is one of the American League's greatest pitchers. He is now 26 years old and has been about the high seas for almost 27 months. As a director of quadruple-mount action in the Marshalls, Gilberts, Marianas, New Guinea and the Philippines.

"Sure, I'm going to pitch with the Bluejackets. I believe I'll be as good as ever."

"Good as ever" means just about the best. The Van Meter, Ia., meteor won 107 games and lost 54 during his six-year span with the Cleveland Indians.

As coach at the Great Lakes naval training station, Feller will have to build a team from scratch since the stars of last year all have moved on.

Lt. Cmdr. Rolfe Williams, athletic officer at the base here, showed his respect for Feller when he announced his appointment. Although it is customary to appoint a commissioned officer, Williams said he was unable to find an officer to handle the job and that he had the "fullest confidence" Feller would do a great job.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Radio's first big feud was the "Battle of Crooners," years ago when Rudy Vallee and Will Osborne sang their romantic ballads to the bobby-soxers of those days. Vallee, apart from his time out for Uncle Sam, has continued constantly on the kilocycles. Osborne, although one of the topflight bandleaders, hasn't been too familiar a figure around the radio scene in recent years. However, Will is coming back. He joins one of the ten top programs on the networks when he becomes maestro on the Abbott and Costello stanzas Thursday nights starting with the April 5 broadcast.

Roy Rogers is a strong believer in breaks of fortune, for he argues it was having a producer spot him on a set while visiting the Sons of the Pioneers, that led him to his present eminence in films and radio. The singing group now is featured with him on the "Roy Rogers Show," broadcast every Tuesday night.

One of the country's foremost novelists, Kathleen Norris, who will take over the scripting of "Bright Horizon" on April 2, is included in the list of American foster parents of British refugees. She "adopted" a British boy as

Circleville Will Change To Fast Time On Monday, April 2

COUNCIL PASSES ORDINANCE AT BUSY SESSION

Garbage Removal, Control Of Water Other Topics At Long Meeting

Circleville councilmen discussed electric rates, hospital rates, water control, garbage removal and passed an ordinance authorizing the switch to Eastern wartime for the summer at a 2 1/2-hour-long meeting Tuesday night.

Daylight saving, or fast time, will go into effect at 12:01 a. m. April 2 and remain as the official time in the city until October 1, according to the emergency ordinance passed under suspension of rules.

City Solicitor Joseph W. Adkins said that many cities would switch to fast time April 1, but that the local change had been fixed for April 2 so that the new time would not confuse Easter day churchgoers.

Hospital Bill Fails

The only other ordinance introduced failed to pass because councilmen did not agree on certain provisions. The measure was a revised Berger hospital rate ordinance. It provided for the increase from $25 to $30 for minimum charge for three days care in maternity cases and from $35 to $40 for five days care. On motion of Councilman George Crites the ordinance was amended to read $35 and $45 minimum charges. Councilman Don Mason moved for suspension of rules and passage of the ordinance but on the suspension of rules roll call Councilman Ray Cook passed his vote and Councilman Boyd Horn voted "no", killing the motion. It was decided to introduce the ordinance again at the next meeting after costs have been investigated.

Washouts Reported

Councilman Mason reported that Monday night's heavy rain had caused Hargus creek to wash out part of the bank along the stream, creating the threat of three trees slipping into the creek and blocking the channel. He reported that other repairs authorized would be made by the service department as soon as weather permitted.

Sewer Plans Prepared

Councilman Crites said plans were nearly completed for sewer projects to care for surface water in other parts of the city. He said that a stone sewer had been found adequate to carry off water from Abernathy and Mound streets if it is hooked up with other outlets. He also read the financial report and asked council for further time for reports on the relief situation and sewer rental discussions with Container Corporation of America officials.

Councilman Cook said that his committee had met with members of the city tax cab commission and representatives of the taxi company. He stated "the situation was improved" and suggested that persons who had legitimate complaints about the service write letters to the committee. He said that certain restrictions had been imposed by the commission and that drivers violating them could have their driving rights revoked.

Rate Proposal Offered

During a recess Fred McKay, representative of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company, presented a proposed new 10-year rate ordinance. Council decided to refer the matter to a later meeting of council as a committee of the whole.

George Van Camp, local contractor, informed council he was interested in a contract to remove garbage and ashes from city homes. He stated he wanted assurance of council that he would be protected from competition before he purchased equipment for the work. Council took no action on the matter, pending reports from a survey made by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery were the last Sunday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Wilson and also other friends in Tarlton.

Electric Company Offers 10-Year Rate Ordinance; Slight Savings Promised

Slight reductions on most residential bills in Circleville would result if council accepts the proposed new ordinance offered Tuesday night by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company.

At the meeting Tuesday night Fred McKay, representative of the company, presented an ordinance calling for a top rate of 4 1/2 cents per kilowatt hour as compared to the present top rate of 5 cents per KWH.

The company is asking for a 10-year contract under the proposed ordinance. The ordinance under which rates are now being charged went into effect August 28, 1937, and is effective until August, 1947. It calls for a top rate of 6 cents per KWH, but this was reduced by the company.

The new proposal offers rates of $1 for the first 20 KWH; 4 1/2 cents per KWH for the next 40 KWH; 3 1/2 cents per KWH for the next 70 KWH; 2 cents per KWH for all over 130 KWH. The present rates are 5 cents per KWH for the first 60; 4 cents per KWH for the next 40; 3 cents per KWH for the next 100; 2 cents per KWH for all over 200.

Mr. McKay said the average consumption in Circleville is 65.9 KWH per month. He said the new rates would amount to savings of about $500 a month or $6,000 a year.

There would be no change in rates for commercial establishments under the proposed ordinance. The proposal also eliminates certain concessions made to users of electric stoves and other appliances.

After discussion of the proposal it was referred to a meeting of council as a committee of the whole.

Company figures show this comparison table:

acts. This may sound unwarranted but it is unbroken custom.

Congress or the press of course, is not entirely competent to criticize all military matters in any confident detail during war time in view of the limited information made available, although certainly specific acts of glaring deficiency or unbecoming conduct can be fairly observed.

This situation unfortunately covers many a sin, much incompetence, much waste—and much civilian control by the army in addition to purely military matters. But the bad is apparently not extractable from the necessary good.

The army has suffered less criticism in this war than ever in history.
